SUMMARY

I hold a master's degree in operations research science, earned in 2024, along with a teaching methods certificate and teaching qualification from the University of Mosul. I have extensive experience in teaching various subjects, including reservoir models, linear and nonlinear programming, statistics, and software tools such as MATLAB, QM, MINITAB, and Win QSP. My expertise also covers algorithms, stochastic and nonlinear processes, random processes, and reliability. I am passionate about utilizing these skills to enhance student understanding and contribute to academic excellence, while continuing to grow as an educator and researcher in the field of operations research.
